

English 201 (Applies only for Anthropology &206D)

The University of Washington requires that students complete 2 courses that are 'writing-intensive'. The way we document completion of these courses, if they are taken at EvCC, is to have students register for English 201.

Before you decide to do so, here are a few details to consider:

- You will be asked to pay for an additional credit.
- You are expected to submit a 10-page draft and a 10-page final version of the paper.
- You may not think you are going to the U, but I say never think never.
- If you are a prolific writer, this may be worth your while.
- Contact me if you plan to do this and we will reiterate the requirements and then I will ask the Communications and Social Sciences division administrative assistant to create the course (takes 1-2 days).
